1	Holly A	12	I want to see the rest of this ASAP please , thank you
2	Richard V	5	Impacting story
Reply to 2	Geoff Y		Thank you Richard! Your support means the world!
3	Harley and Tara M	9	Really good start and honor to his memory and how he lived and spoke
Reply to 3	Geoff Y		Thank you Harley and Tara! Zac's last entry in his diary was this. I Zachariah Micah Young am a passionate follower of Jesus Christ, and it's my mission to share the love of God in every major city in the world! His dad discovered this when they where cleaning his room after the attack. There is no doubt that God has set his life to be a beacon of what it means to love. In the surf, as he was bleeding out, he literally gathered his mates together, prayed for them, told them he loved them. That was the last thing he did. In the days that followed, even in the midst of massive grief and mourning, there was a revival in the town of Port Macquarie. Hundreds of people were baptized in the surf, the message of Jesus was spoken clearly by his friends to anybody who would listen. What God did, and is still doing, is just remarkable. Thank you again for viewing the torch, and thank you again for helping us make this project a reality!
4	Geraldine D	0	More than the movies not enough to keep it watching until iù7%
5	Carolyn D	25	Wow! We should all live so purposefully as Zac did. I can't wait to see the rest of His (the Lord's) story through this devoted young man. "If we live, we live to the Lord; and if we die, we die to the Lord. So, whether we live or die, we belong to the Lord." Romans 14:8
Reply to 5	Geoff Y		Amen and Amen!
Reply to 5	Geoff Y		I am personally challenged by this young man. I have gained so much by speaking to his friends and exploring how they walked out their faith - just phenomenal. Thank you for taking the time to view the project and for your prayer and support!
6	David V	8	Another testimonial torch. Angel needs a separate category for these, not usually astudios project.
Reply to 6	Geoff Y		Hi David, Thanks for taking a look and for your comment. Normally I would agree with you, as "life-stories" are not to everybody's taste. In this case however, for that the fact that there is proven power in this testimony, I hope to make this an exception. People have come to faith through Zac's story, via this first 12 minutes and a full video of Zac's testimony released online, in multiple cities and countries. I feel like it's no longer a gamble, but rather that we're going to amplify something that God has already started to do: to open peoples eyes to his love for them, and to open their hearts to respond. Thank you again for taking the time to view and to comment. I appreciate your support for Angel and their mission!

7	Deborah S	35	I like the way the documentary has been woven together, weaving between interviews, footage of Zac and imagery of the horse, it's very creative and well put together. I think this will minister to a lot of people and would be an excellent addition to Angel 🍷❤️100 %
Reply to 7	Geoff Y		Thank you Deborah! We really hope to see the full story get to the big screen. Zac's story is a gift to us. I've seen it shared with hundreds of people, all non-believers, and not one has ever turned away. When he was attacked by the shark, the last thing he did was to pray for his friends. As he was bleeding out, right there with the shark still beneath them, he was praying for his friends and telling them he loved them. In the days around his funeral revival broke out in Port Macquarie. What God did was amazing, but more is to come. Zac, in the very last page of his diary, wrote these words. I, Zachariah Micah Young, am a passionate follower of Jesus Christ, and it's my mission to share the love of God in every major city around the world. We hope to play a small part in making that happen. Thank you for your help and support!
Reply to 7	Leah K		I agree. It's a very inspirational documentary. It lays the truth put in front of you that it takes many a lifetime to acknowledge, accept, know, and then believe.
Reply to 7	Leah K		It is all about love, light, faith, and hope. What we put out does affect the world we live in, the future, and those around us. Material items won't be leaving the physical world when we do. It's the souls of others and their spirit that we should be protecting, growing, and cherishing as well as our own. What others do to you isn't personal but a result of their trauma, hurt, inability to be honest with themselves, and shows that they just need more growth. They need to elevate.
Reply to 7	Leah K		When you realize all this it brings you peace and relief like no other. When you use logic and reasoning without giving into insecurity or acting on negative emotions, you allow yourself to see things more clearly.
Reply to 7	Leah K		That is what I call "The Truth." For this reason, I really think this was an important film as it amplifies enough light to reveal "The Truth" to others who can then bring light to others. I really don't understand why people would vote it down unless they didn't watch it long enough to grasp the concept.
8	Katie M	7	I'm confused at what the "supernatural" thing here is. I think you would need to actually say what it is for us to okay this.
Reply to 8	Katie M		He sounds like a wonderful young man whom God actively prepared for his kingdom.
Reply to 8	Rachel c		I agree I have no idea what is happening in this beside something supernatural. Which could very easily be implied ghosts or idk but definitely not God

Reply to 8	Tiffany B		I think those that don't truly know God and haven't seen how amazing He is and how He can show Himself through others would call the things they see "supernatural". But, from what I saw, and the fact that a few literally mentioned God and God's presence in this short clip, I feel later in the full length version we would see how God used Zac and in his death to minister to those he left behind. I think the term "supernatural" is just an early term used by some earlier in the documentary.
Reply to 8	Katie M		Whoops...hit enter too soon. I would be unapologetically Christian with this. While supernatural may attract those who aren't Christian, it may deter those who are believers. Miraculous would be a better choice (in my opinion) that would appease both sides of the aisle. I'll bet if you submitted with that you'd have a better chance.
Reply to 8	Tracey M		Supernatural here = Holy Spirit
Reply to 8	Geoff Y		(adding to my previous comment...) I think you're right, and wise, and I wish I could play a bet both ways! On the balance of things, although it might make our pitch more difficult, I want to present the project exactly as it will be: an evangelistic tool. His Dad found his diary after he died, and his last entry was this. "I, Zachariah Micah Young, am a passionate follower of Jesus Christ, and it's my mission to share the love of Jesus Christ in every major city of the world." For the sake of this mission, and for the sake of those who live never having felt the love of God, this project is unashamedly for them. God will find a way.
Reply to 8	Geoff Y		I really appreciate your comments on this point. Thank you for taking the time to view the torch and leave your thoughts! Zac's relationship with Jesus Christ, in the last year of his life, was real and very contagious. By the time he passed he and his friends where daily in the center of town praying for people on the street, seeing people miraculously healed, seeing people come to faith, they where fearlessly and genuinely loving even the unlovable. The term supernatural is very deliberately used to make this story approachable for those who don't yet know Jesus. This documentary is as much for those who don't yet have faith, as it is for those who are already on the journey. So far, even with the little we've done, we've seen people in Australia and people in the pacific Islands radically encounter God and become followers of Jesus. I can't wait to share the things that God is doing! Thank you again for watching the torch - I hope we can make the full story a documentary!
9	Martha G	13	This will be an amazing documentary Tribute to Faith and God's Reality! I can't wait to see it!
Reply to 9	Geoff Y		Thank you Martha! Your love and support is so appreciated!
10	Paul B	27	I am interested in finding out a lot more of the story of what happening.

Reply to 10	Geoff Y		Thank you Paul, I appreciate your time to review and comment! And thank you for bearing with me as we develop the story - we've very purposefully set out to ask a series of big questions at the front of the film, which bit by bit will be answered as we go throughout the next 90minutes or so. The story, at it's center, develops the hugely important idea of living for what's beyond this life. In a way, Zac spent every minute of his last year as if he KNEW it was his last year, loving everybody, even strangers, as if they would be the last person he'd see on earth. I personally have been deeply challenged by this. Living like every day was your last - although we all talk about this - I've never met anybody who actually did it~! And yet there he is, even just moments after being attacked by the shark in the surf, bleeding out and dying, he's praying for his friends and telling them that he loved them. Remarkable. So thank you! Thank you for your support!
11	Cheryl V	5	This is a wonderful project with a message that needs to be heard by young people. I would like to see it fully developed as a film. One note, some of the commas were had to understand, just a thought on that. Otherwise, well done.
Reply to 11	Geoff Y		Thank you Cheryl for reviewing the project, and thank you for your comment. Can you explain what you mean by 'commas'? I would like to understand this so we can make adjustments in the future.
Reply to 11	Cheryl V		Apology, I meant "comments." Most speakers comments were easy to follow, but just a couple times the speaker was hard to understand. No biggie if no one else mentioned it.
Reply to 11	Geoff Y		Hi Cheryl, Aaha! Yes - sometimes the Aussie accent is tricky, and so we've got subtitles done which I hope Angel can make a way for us to add going forward. Zac had a bunch of American friends, and they're easier to understand and will play a huge part in the full length feature. Thank you for your support and your comments!
12	Christy D	4	It has potential. I'd like to see the full production...
Reply to 12	Geoff Y		Hi Christy, God will open a pathway one way or another. Thank you for your support! Let's see what he does. Bless you and thank you~!
13	Rick S	0	I can't wait to watch this film. We will all face death at some point but we do not want to experience it. We don't want to embrace it. We fear it.
14	Angela B	1	Hopefully with more detailed info
15	Sandy D	4	Very interesting. I believe if your heart is right with the LORD - Zac could have heard directly from his Lord. He shared God's love. That was evident
Reply to 15	Geoff Y		Hi Sandy, I agree. The interesting thing is that Zac's dad thought he was the only one who Zac had told this to. But when I started speaking to other people, it turned out there where actually heaps, to some he had actually purposefully reached out to say goodbye. Makes my head spin. At the end of it all the meaning I take from it is simply this - we all must - regardless of if we've heard from God the number of our days - we must live like this is it. And I've NEVER come across anybody who really does this for real. But this kid certainly did. It had impacted me deeply and I hope to follow in his footsteps. Bless you and thank you for your support!

16	Jane L	5	Very engaging and curious subject. Elijah knew he was going to heaven, before he was taken up in a whirlwind. Enoch didn't die, yet he was taken up. Maybe, God does let people know. God gave King Hezekiah 15 more years, after God told him he was going to die. Hezekiah cried bitterly, and God allowed him to live. We don't have any idea of all the things that go on between God and others. But we know enough from the Bible to know God's love. 🌹
Reply to 16	Geoff Y		You're so right! And this is just the tip of the iceberg~! Bless you and thank you!
17	Jimmy S	3	Wonderful film, look forward to seeing the rest of his story.
Reply to 17	Geoff Y		Thank you Jimmy! Really appreciate your vote of confidence!
18	Cindy A	1	What a bundle of joy and light Zach was. Would like to hear more about his story. It was hard to read with white print over ocean with clouds. Was interested but could not read.
Reply to 18	Jeanne W		I agree, difficult to read
19	Mark B	3	I still have no idea what supernatural thing happened after his death.
20	The M	4	It moves slow and I don't understand what was going on Who was running and jumping in the water? What does that have to do with a horse on a beach? Who are the people talking, friends, family? Probably an interesting story, just a bit challenging to follow for someone unfamiliar with this person.
Reply to 20	Geoff Y		Thank you so much for taking the time to review, and thank you for the questions and comments. The full documentary has been written, based on interviews collected and filmed now over two years. Much of the questions you have become clear as the docu goes on. I wish I had a bigger section to share with you! The person jumping in the water is Zac. He was famous for being fearless, especially when it came to sharing Jesus, and there is an entire back story on this. This was filmed at the location they were jumping in the river as shared by Jakayla, the first interviewee to speak. The horse on the beach is a reoccurring and developing theme, and as we go becomes apparent that this is a visual metaphor to that unfolding in the unseen. The names of people speaking can, and should really, include titles to make this clearer. So thank you for this feedback - we will address this and appreciate you helping us out with this feedback.
21	Wellness M	3	This looks like a powerful story that needs to be told. I can't wait for it to air! Thank you for sharing Zac's story!
22	Pamela H	1	In my opinion, I don't see the significance of the story. How did this experience change the lives of those left behind? This young man had a premonition that he was going to die, so what was the effect on him and those closest to him? Was it preventable? I don't understand the significance of the story. Z
23	Sandy P	0	An interesting story. I appreciate the honesty of the filmmaker who speaks about his skepticism (that reflected my own initial questioning). This documentary highlights God's power and purpose in each of our lives.
24	George G	0	This is done extraordinarily well!

25	Kyle T	4	What's the "supernatural thing" that happened?? This wandered all over the place and seemed to have no point. I'm sure Zac's story is great but from this torch, I didn't get what it was about. It was really slow and never got to the point.
Reply to 25	Geoff Y		Hi Kyle, thank you for taking the time to view and ask the question. The word 'supernatural' is being used to describe miracles. The purpose of this story is to reach those who are yet to come to faith, and language and terminology like this is deliberate to help make the project accessible. My reply can only be 500 characters, but here is an outline as to what sort of miracles we're talking about. Zac encountered God's love, and we have his testimony sharing this in his own words, recorded before his death. He and a group of friends would fearlessly share Jesus, his love, and pray for people. Miracles on the street became legendary, even now ten years on. Then came the shark attack. As Zac was in the surf, bleeding out, he gathered his friends, prayed for them and told them he loved them. He died praying for them, as they tried to get him to shore. From that point revival broke out, miracles, baptisms on mass, crazy stuff. We hope to be able to tell the full story!
26	Scotty B	0	Beautiful cinematography and engaging storytelling. I'm intrigued to know more about what God has done through Zac's life and death.
27	Deborah S	0	This is pretty awesome!
28	Kimberly N	2	I would definitely want to watch this movie
29	Kenneth S	2	Too disjointed. Video went black on me seemingly 1/2 way through. However, was not holding my interest in way story being Tod.
30	Heidi K	3	Keen to see the impact on the community and how God is glorified in Zac's life.
31	Tammy S	2	Just proves you never know what your impact will be on others,,be kind and spread Gods love. Cant wait to see the whole movie
Reply to 31	Geoff Y		Thank you Tammy!
32	Linda L	1	I need to know more about Zach's faith at the beginning of the story for me to be emotionally invested in him before I find out that he thinks he will die young.
33	Tom M	0	M
34	Trinity C	0	Life lesson- live each day of your life like it is your last.
35	lori h	2	I thought this was really interesting - I'm so curious where it leads -
36	Lorraine R	0	Beautifully filmed. I'm excited to hear Zac's full story.

37	Jennifer B	0	This reminds me of an experience I had with 'knowing' something before it happened. When the thought popped into my head, it didn't make any sense, and I could only see one way it could play out... but I knew beyond a shadow of a doubt that it was true. If it had played out the way I thought, I wouldn't be here, but it did play out - in an unpredictable way. Learned that truth isn't always what you think it is. Look forward to seeing more of this.
38	Maxine M	3	Seems to be the making of a good story, but we who are critiquing it are really left in the dark as to what it is all about. If it continues on the same track, I can see it developing into a great story especially for young people. There seems to be good examples of living a life for God.
Reply to 38	Geoff Y		Hi Maxine, Thank you for your comments and thoughts. I agree, and I hope that in the future Angel provide a way to provide the script. In our case that's the transcripts of all the interviews, woven together to show how the full length documentary will unfold Zac's story on the screen. I appreciate that, going on just the first 12mins, you've not much to go on! I hope that from some of the replies and comments I've been able to provide people with the clarity they need to vote. But perhaps a little to late, who knows. God will find a way! Thank you for your help and your support. Bless you!
39	Sir Harry B	0	Very inspiring
40	Rayment M	1	Humanity needs to see and hear about more love in this world.
41	Erica B	0	I love this story. It's very sad how Zack died, but knowing that he gave his life to God is fantastic!!! He knew he was going to die somehow, and soon. How he knew that, is just baffling.
42	peter d	1	I'm not sure I've seen enough to evaluate it. It's interesting and has potential, but the segments in the clip seem disjointed and raise more questions than give clarity.
Reply to 42	Geoff Y		Hi Peter, Thank you for your comment and for your vote of support. I appreciate your support even though I've left you in the dark on so many things, raising questions with no answers! Yes - I have raised questions and left them open ended. The goal is to create a 100min plus documentary, and so to keep people to the end, to make sure they've the best chance of hearing about Jesus love in as much detail as possible. To that end I'm using every trick in the book, although I appreciate it makes it VERY unfulfilling for the guild members at the moment. In the future perhaps Angel will make a way that we can provide the entire script, which in our case is the transcript of all the interviews as they'd be cut together, and this would answer all those questions for the guild members asking questions like yourself. Where we're going, in short, is to the moment in the surf where Zac has been attacked. In his last moments he prays for his friends and tells them he loves them. The gospel!
43	Kyle S	3	This is a powerful story. It reflects the fact we must listen to hear our lord speak to us. And we should not fear death, for a path has been paved for us.
Reply to 43	Geoff Y		Yes - Kyle, I totally agree! You've said it brilliantly. A path has been paved, right through the middle of an ocean of chaos and calamity, to clear and brilliant life on the other side. It's true for all who find the pathway, and I hope Zac's story can help many many people find it. Thank you for your prayers and support!

44	Wendy Potter P	0	Sounds promising
45	Randy K	3	Quite an interesting story of how God works in mysterious ways. It was almost unbelievable, but is amazingly interesting. God loves us and to hear how He uses this young man's life to bring glory to Him.
Reply to 45	Geoff Y		Hi Randy, I totally agree. In the same way Jesus knelt down to write in the dust, God writes his story in the dust of humanity, and Zac is just one extraordinary stroke of his pen in mortal flesh. I'm sure we'll find a way to get this story finished and on the big screen, and I really appreciate your help along the way!
46	Lawrence S	4	Pure, Honest, Belief and Faith... my own faith and belief told me almost immediately this story wasn't fake or made up and I'd never heard of Mr. Young or his story before. It's not explainable really, not to someone who's a non believer or perhaps even skeptical...just saying it's a feeling isn't proof or fact, it's a connection between you and God and comes from the Holy Spirit directly souly. His life was short but meant to show glory and honor to our creator, God. I love it. Looking forward
Reply to 46	Geoff Y		Hi Lawrence, Thank you for your reply and for sharing your heart and your insights. I'm the same - except I was EXTREMELY skeptical at first! What I found amazing, is was with all the miraculous things that happened, is that his friends and other people touched by these events in the community, that they all considered it kind of normal. Like, yeah that happened... and they didn't stop to think deeply on it or put the pieces together. Unbelievable! Later on in the docu we get a bunch of Zac's old friends, some who hadn't seen each other for years, around a fire one rainy and windy night on the beach. The stories that came out were wild! So much more than we could possibly bring to the screen, but all so consistent with how God works. Organic, wild, unpredictable, and yet a magnificent picture in hindsight. Thank you again for taking a look - I appreciate your support!
47	Edna J	1	The narrator leaves me with more questions than answers . What were Zac's accomplishments in the community ? What made Zac special that a documentary about his life would be made ? What was it that brought the community together ? So many supporting details are missing .
48	Oscar G	1	So excited to see the full movie
49	Beverly L	0	Wow!
50	Diane R	2	I'm intrigued by this short film about Zac young. When I heard his dad talking and wearing a Jesus hat, I thought it might have real substance. I hope it becomes a full length documentary. Thank you for your hard work so far!
51	stephen f	1	true stories are the best stories
Reply to 51	Mimi A		100
52	LEK E	3	PTL! Amazing story about our true citizenship, not in a temporal place, but rather the eternal Kingdom.

Reply to 52	Geoff Y		Hi Lek E, I agree! You have understood exactly what Zac lived for. We found an interview with Zac (and we've since put the original file online if you want to go looking for it), where he shares exactly this - we are to live for a Kingdom not of this earth. That's what Jesus calls us to - to follow him and not to fear death. Death has no longer has a sting! He not only shared this to everybody he met, he lived it every day for his last year on earth. So challenging! Thank you for your support, it's really appreciated.
53	Nathan H	4	This is a fantastic story and I believe it needs to be told.
Reply to 53	Geoff Y		Amen and thank you!
54	Kathy M	3	Such a powerful story of faith and hope. Definitely has piqued my interest.
55	Angela F	3	This is a unique story. I loved the way the beach scenes with the horses were captured, just beautiful. The interviews were well done, light music, and enjoyed the take of the producer and his thoughts. Looking forward to the full movie.
Reply to 55	Geoff Y		Thank you Angela! Thank you so much!
56	Glen C	0	Didn't grab me.
57	Amanda H	0	Seems interesting but not yet understanding why his story is significant. Hints toward it but nor clear
58	Joel P	0	Looks like an overall great story. Seems to be well produced cinematically. The testimonials of people bring it to life further.
59	Frances F	0	This promises to be a phenomenal film. Gorgeous cinematography, skillful editing, powerful story. Kudos on the work thus far!
60	Joseph B	0	This seems like it will be good, but I am having a hard time grasping what his project is or what exactly about his life that brought people to Christ, but it seems intriguing
61	DR T	0	I didn't see enough of his life or the impact thereof portrayed in this preview. His death was heinous and tragic. Long life is not guaranteed to any of us, so this film reminds us of that I guess. The quirky music seems oddly misplaced in the preview. The whole thing left me feeling indifferent.
62	Lori K	0	Looks like a story I'd like to see more of.
63	Rebeka E	0	I don't feel like it needs to be improved the story is familiar to me, I had a friend who told us the same thing that he was going to die young. He did still don't understand how or why it happened but he knew.
64	Lisa S	3	That's all I get to see. Totally interested in this story. I hope it makes it past the guild.
Reply to 64	Geoff Y		Hi Lisa, Thank you and I'm with you - I hope we make it as well! Whatever happens, God will find a way. Bless you!
65	Norma C	0	I think it's a great film. You need to finish it and follow your heart. Don't be afraid of what you find faith is.
66	Elaine L	0	Teaser is well made and intriguing. Makes me want to see the movie. Hard to say for sure if it fits the Angel criteria, but so far so good

67	Rick L	0	I always applaud the filmmaker when the short gives endgame information to leave us wanting to know more. I'm not a typical viewer of documentaries, but I want to know more. At first, I was going to bypass this short because there has been a lot about death submitted. If it weren't for the compelling interviewer, I would've. Let's see about these miracles.
Reply to 67	Geoff Y		Hi Rick, thank you! Thank you for giving us a shot and watching the clip. And then giving us a vote of confidence as well - wow! I can't wait to share with you (and the rest of the world - as much as we can really) how wide and deep and magnificent is the love of God, through Zac's story. An honor and a privilege. Thank you once again for your encouragement and support. Just amazing!
68	C N	0	I'd love to see more. It looks very good. Thanks so much.
69	Holly H	0	I can't wait to hear the whole story.
70	Gabrielle B	0	I want to know more
71	Heather S	0	No sure! A little disjointed until I hear the whole story.
72	Staci P	0	Seems interesting, need to know more
73	Wanda B	0	This story really intrigues mrr
74	Sue k	0	I was impressed with him giving his life or death over to God I would like to know more why they were so surprised.
75	Patty S	0	The farther I watched the film, I felt the Holy Spirit say,"yes, this is divine."
76	Debra H	1	I want to learn what Zac did in that city. I want to learn about the movement that his friends are still leading. I want to see the Light that shined so brightly through the life of Zac Young. Please tell his story.
77	G Tomas C	0	Great clip! Nicely done. I've had similar experiences where a young person in my life died, a an amazing life lived on in their memory.
78	Emily M	4	I would be extremely disappointed not to be blessed to see this documentary!!
Reply to 78	Geoff Y		Me too Emily! Thank you so much for your support!
79	Toby B	2	Sounds very inspiring and faithful promoting in God
80	Tracey H	0	Have not seen it yet
81	Kevin M	0	Not my genre
82	Danielle G	0	THIS LOOKS LIKE A DOCUMENTARY BUT I AM CONFUSED OF WHAT ACTUALLY HAPPENED THAT LEADS ZAC TO CONVERSION IT IS NOT CLEAR ENOUGH!?
83	Jonathan R	0	I'm guessing it will be good,
84	SirJames H L	0	To Witness God's Love and the young man who followed it.
85	Debbie D	0	Looking forward to seeing this.
86	Margaux C	2	I am so excited for this project. I hope it's very soon I get to see the full length version. The interviews were great and the photography stills and visuals were incredible. Fantastic work by everyone involved with this amazing project.

Reply to 86	Geoff Y		Hi Margaux, Thank you for your kinds words! We're so thankful to be able to make even just this small start. We've already been able to screen this small part to people in all sorts of places, and seen Jesus move. It's such a door opener! From this we can talk about death, life, and life after death. Zac's love for Jesus was wild ... and of the hundreds I've seen the message shared with I've not seen even one person turn away. EVERYBODY LISTENS! So we know that God is doing something amazing, and we're so excited to see this become a full documentary. Thank you again! We're so appreciative of your help and support!
87	Tiffany B	3	First of all, here I was watching, captivated, thoroughly enthralled watching and waiting and POOF...the clip stops! UGHHH! YES, I WANT MORE! I have to see what happened! Not only is this a tragedy BUT, this beautiful young man left behind an overwhelming divine spiritual Godly presence and experience for everyone around him, he also left his story for all of us to experience with them. I really hope this passes!
Reply to 87	Geoff Y		Hi Tiffany! Wow - you made me laugh! Thank you for watching and thank you for your support. At the moment - SADLY - we're not on track to pass. But nevertheless - God had no boundaries and I'm confident he will find a way where there is no way. Thank you again for your support and beautiful comment. So good!
Reply to 87	Tiffany B		😄 Glad I made you laugh! But in all honesty, that's actually how I felt LOL! I just saw your soooo close to passing! 😭 I'll be definitely praying 🙏 ya'll pass with flying colors the next go round! I kinda feel like maybe other viewers didn't get as "captivated" as I did with this clip portion. 🤔 There's a lot of skepticism about "supernatural" being used. Maybe give it a twist and show a different perspective? Just a thought
88	D K	0	It might be really good, but from this clip, I have no idea what is so miraculous or special about him.
89	HandTalker R	0	Connect more in Godly way
90	Douglas K	0	This project appears to offer today's younger generation a window into a larger faith figure is in control of everyone's lives, past the YOLO/FOMO = YouOnlyLiveOnce/FearOfMissingOut modern view of the world. Only item I question is the use of term, "supernatural." The way Zac publicly stated his renewed faith in God, I'm hoping his friends had the chance to quietly discuss his thoughts with them and work past the initial shock of "dying young."

Reply to 90	Geoff Y		Hi Douglas, Thank you for taking the time to view the clip, and for your thoughtful comments. The term supernatural isn't a perfect fit, but it is chosen on purpose. This project, following on from Zac's own commitment to share the gospel with those who have yet to experience God's love, is pitched 100% to the unsaved. To catch and keep their attention 'supernatural' themes are a great fit. They can switch off at the term 'miracle', wanting nothing to do with religion. Zac's friends, after Zac's death, where even more fearless in how they shared the message of Jesus Christ. In the years that followed, even in the midst of grief (and trauma for those in the surf with him during the attack), there are those in the community who now have a profound understanding of death, and it's complete defeat. I feel like I've had a masterclass in how to walk in love as if every day is your last! There is so so so much here it's a pleasure to help them bring Zac's story to the screen.
91	Shelly R	0	This is an amazing story
92	Peggy L	0	It is presented in a slow stretching manner.
93	Donna F	0	I have so many questions after watching the clip, and I guess that was the intention. Unfortunately, lots of people die tragically young, I don't see what's unique about Zac's story.
94	Phoebe K	2	Wow, neat story. I can't wait to see what God did in Zac's life. Well choreographed; loved the cameo of Zac and the horse running on the beach.
95	Tracey M	1	Just phenomenal so moved as I walk with Jesus as I face ALS and can't wait to see this made
96	Pamela G	0	The only way to tr
97	Angela O	0	It took too long to get that something "super-natural" happened related to Zac and I still have no clue what happened. I watched to the end to be fair but I honestly wanted to stop 2 minutes into the preview.
98	A P	0	I'm definitely hooked. Eager to hear more. I feel the power from the walk of faith this young man had.
99	Jaclyn B	1	Very poignant for me, as I've had two major delays and kept changing my ticket to an El Salvador beach town. I couldn't check in for my flight, so I sat down to decompress for a few min with a guild movie, and the scenes of the shore (horse included) looked exactly like my friend's backyard. I cancelled my ticket and thanked God for his wisdom. Listen to the messages God gives you, and obey Him. Yes, make this movie!
100	Mellanie G	1	It's rare that I am speechless but.....wow! This story MUST be told!
101	Patricia R	0	Look to be a very inspiring story
102	Beverly S	0	Beautiful story. Want to hear the rest!
103	Doreen M	0	I had a hard time following this. After reading the info and watching the clip, I still only grasp that he died and something unbelievable happened after his death. But can't tell if this amplifies light. Personally, I need more info.
104	Nicole A	1	This looks pretty good though I personally am not a fan of documentaries.
105	Gwen B	0	❤️
106	Jenny C	0	Looks promising.

107	Kat W	0	I am very excited to see the whole story!
108	Jori L	0	The horse running on the beach and the entire first half of this video had me bored and put off. I was just thinking... Why? And almost turned it off right there. I'm torn on this movie. It's a lovely movie of a young man gone early. But the fact that he knew he was going to die early? He surfed and swam in Australian shark infested waters. It's very sad and he seems like he was a wonderful person. As for it being supernatural? Maybe?
109	Marie Chantal G	0	I want to hear the rest it's like it leaves you wanting more with more I want the story completely I want I want
110	Jacob P	0	I would be interested to see the full thing. What is here so far feels really good. I gave it a lower rating because I don't really know the impact the story is gonna have.
111	Corrine I	0	Documentary
112	Lynsie T	0	This looks like a beautiful faith building story.
113	Olivia B	0	This torch was very confusing to me. It seemed like it was trying to put in too much and it took away from the overall focus. I didn't really like the humor of the documentary film man trying to say how he was figuring it all out. I don't understand much of what really happened, or what his impact was except that he had friends who loved him. I get he knew he was going to leave the earth sooner. I think it needs more focus. The words at the beginning were too fast. Hoping it comes together.
114	Patricia H	0	This looks like it will be a wonderful documentary.
115	Carolyn A	1	Ok you surprised me. For the first half, I thought it was a tribute to a fun, loving guy who would be missed. Now I'm hooked and want to know the rest. You almost lost me with the slow start and slow-mo horse. But I'm glad I hung in there. The beautiful dead body got me because I have witnessed that myself with my dad and he was not a young surfer dude. 🤔👀
116	Deborah V	0	Beautiful story
117	Cherie B	0	I would LOVE to hear more of Zac's story!
118	Kathy A	0	This needs so much work. I felt like I missed the middle of it since the revolution wasn't explained well at all in my opinion. Just not enough story development.
119	A C	0	Seems very touching and intriguing. The part that made it a 100% yes for me was the director interviewing himself and starting to glimpse eternity. Also hearing about Zac recommitting himself to follow God in whichever way God saw best after he heard. Without having seen the whole film, I have an understanding of Zac, and what it's like for God to talk to you like a friend and tell you some things about your life to come. People think that's weird, but it's not. Thanks for (I hope) showing this.
120	Sarah P	0	Impact of Christ is absolutely everything. If he made an impact on one city, I want to study that. Revival is here
121	Raul V	0	Great documentary style and cinematography! Very inspiring story on a subject most of us shun. The way the director was able to depict the true feelings from Zach's loved ones really comes through and I want to hear more!
122	amy d	0	I'm
